« As we celebrate our 20th anniversary in 2022, Artcurial has had its best year since its creation and has consolidated its position as the leading French Auction house.

These results illustrate the strong resistance of the art market in a still complex global environment.

Artcurial, Arqana, John Taylor and their subsidiaries, form today a unique French group specialized in selling unique cultural and exceptional goods. In 2022 all of our companies recorded growth in their activities thanks to the strong specialization of their positioning.

In 2023, we will continue to develop our group both in France and abroad by focusing on the quality of our support for our clients and their families in the sale and acquisition of cultural and exceptional goods. »

Artcurial

« 2022 is a record-breaking year for Artcurial! With a strong increase of collections sold, all specialties included, the House reaffirms its prominent role and its know-how in accompanying and advising families of collectors. These results were notably driven by the Fine Arts and Motorcars departments, with some auction records, such as for Jean-Siméon Chardin's "Panier de Fraise des Bois". True to its DNA, Artcurial also continued to develop new segments. The success of the first sales of NFT and Brazilian Design, and the expansion of sales of 'very contemporary' art, with Generation 21, are all signs of Artcurial's dynamism. »

Composed of carefully selected paintings, drawings and sculptures, it will be the occasion to propose new discoveries to all the amateurs, collectors and curators that we will have the pleasure to welcome.

ARTCURIAL AROANA JOHN TAYLOR

*Leading group in Europe
specialized in selling unique and exceptional goods*

1.6 billion euros in sales by group entities

In 2022, Artcurial celebrates its 20th anniversary and consolidates its position as the leading French auction house. It was at the origin of the development of the eponymous Group, the European leader in the intermediation of exceptional goods, with 620 employees in 25 countries and total sales of over 1.6 billion euros.

In addition to the Rond-Point des Champs Elysées auction house, the Group's brands include John Taylor, one of the oldest luxury real estate groups. With a presence in more than 11 countries, it offers unique access to prestigious luxury properties.

The third entity of the Group, Arqana is the leading French auction house for racehorses, in association with His Highness Aga Khan, the cradle of thoroughbred and trotter breeding in France where yearling sales (foals aged 18 months) have been held since 1887.

The group recently acquired Next Yachting, which merged its activities with John Taylor Yachting, thus becoming one of the significant players in the sale and charter of yachts over 25 meters.
